Archaic period | art history | Britannica

Archaic Art, from c. 700-480 BC, began with an Orientalizing Phase (735-650 BC). In this, elements from other civilizations began to creep into Greek art. The elements were those of the Near East (not exactly what we think of as the "Orient" now, but remember the world was a lot "smaller" in those days).

The Different Periods of Ancient Greek Art

Classical art is also easily recognizable from its near-perfect depictions of the human form in life-size and monumental sculpture. Greek artists became increasingly focused on the study of human anatomy and musculature, evolving from the Archaic kouros to more naturalistic, physically accurate depictions of the human form.
